Yellowstone is an enormous National Park in the United States of America. It covers parts of the states of Wyoming, Montana, and Idaho. The park's wild countryside covers nearly 5.000 square miles, making it one of the largest national parks in the whole country.

The park has some amazing examples of nature. There are over 1.100 types of plants, 285 types of birds, and 67 types of animals, including bears, deer, and wolves. There are also high mountains, deep valleys, beautiful rivers, green forests, and hot pools of water called springs, which allow for many different species to live in their own beautiful ecosystem. The park is home to nine visitors' centers that have useful information about everything in the park, helping tourists to make the most of their visit.

There are rules about what you can and can't do, for example, where you can go hiking and camping in the park. If you want to go camping, you must stay in one of the 2,000 campsites. This is not only to keep the plants and animals safe but also because it can be quite dangerous. Visitors must follow these rules to ensure both their safety and the preservation of the park's natural beauty.

There are lots of ways to contact people today – we can send letters, emails, or a message on a smartphone. But do you know that people have used birds to send messages ? Carrier pigeons were very useful for humans because they could find their way home from places that were far away.

We don't really understand how, but these clever birds can travel from a new place back to their home, and not get lost. People put small messages on the bird's leg, for people at home to read. In the past, lots of important messages traveled this way. Pigeons carried messages in Ancient Egypt, Ancient China, and Rome, and in more modern times, too.

As well as knowing where to go, the birds can fly a long way very quickly. They can fly over 700 miles in one day, at about 37 miles an hour. 4 Read the following text and answer the questions :

Computers can't think for themselves, but they are very good at doing what we tell them. Because of this, it's very important that the instructions we give our computers are clear and correct.

When we get up in the morning, we know that we have to do one thing before another. We have breakfast, then we brush our teeth and we go to school. A computer doesn't know how to order activities by itself. You have to tell a computer which thing to do first and which thing to do next or it won't know what to do. Also, you need to write the instructions in a language that the computer can understand. This computer language is called code. People who write instructions for computers are called computer programmers. It's their job to write instructions using code so that computers work properly.

There are many different types of codes, so a good computer programmer learns all the computer languages to know which one is best for each job. So, for example, Python is used for game design. JavaScript is used for web-based programmes and C/C++ is used for your computer's operating system. Would you like to be a computer programmer ?

The bullet train is a special train in Japan that can travel up to 200 miles per hour. It is a very fast way to travel! But the engineers who developed it found that it made a loud noise when it came out of a tunnel. This was a problem, and the engineers found a solution in nature.

The kingfisher is a bird that can fly very fast, but when it goes into water to catch fish, the water doesn't move very much. The engineers thought this was because of the kingfisher's beak. It is very long and thin, and it goes into the water first.

The bullet train was designed to have a long, thin part at the front, like a kingfisher's beak. Now, it can travel very quickly, and it isn't noisy.

Car accidents have increased all over the world for many reasons. Many children die on our roads because parents do not pay enough attention to their safety. It is common, for example, to see children climbing over the seat from the back of the car to the front. As a result, the driver can become distracted and cause an accident. Moreover, you sometimes see passengers carrying babies or children in their arms. Although parents cannot change the behavior of other drivers, they can make their own car a safer place for their children. Before they set off on a journey, they should make sure their children are wearing seatbelts. In the same way, parents should wear seatbelts themselves.

Elephants live in families. When a baby elephant is born, the family is very excited. They come close to the baby to welcome it and the mother helps the baby to stand up. The mother elephant looks after her baby very carefully. If it moves away from her, she brings it back. If the sun is very hot, she moves the baby under her body.

If a baby can't climb over something, its mother helps it with her trunk. Sometimes, other young elephants help a mother elephant look after her baby. This is how young elephants learn to take care of babies.

Elephants walk from place to place looking for food and water. When the elephants are walking, the baby sometimes holds its mother's tail. If a lion comes close to them, all the elephants stop and stand close together with the babies in the middle. It is an amazing world!

Dear Grandma,

Hope you are well! We are having a great time on vacation. It is amazing here!

The trip was quite difficult because there was a delay at the airport. We also lost one of our bags, but we have it back now! We were worried for a while!

Yesterday was really exciting! It was a beautiful day, and we wanted to do something outside.

We went on a beautiful boat trip on a river. We listened to the birds and we looked at the countryside. It was very peaceful.

But then, while I was taking a photograph of some birds, I felt some water on my feet. Lots of water was coming into our boat, because there was a hole in the bottom of it, so we had to get out and swim!

I am sending you a photograph of me at the start of our boat trip. I look happy and dry!

CU!

Love,

Courtney

4 Read the following text and answer the questions:

Tourism means traveling to different places for fun, learning, or rest. People travel to see mountains, beaches, cities, or forests. Many tourists like to visit famous places like the Great Wall of China, the Eiffel Tower, or the Pyramids in Egypt. Some people travel to learn about new cultures, try new foods, or meet new people. Tourism also helps the people who live in those places. They can work in hotels, restaurants, museums, or shops. It helps the country earn money too. However, too many tourists can cause problems. Some places become too crowded, noisy, or dirty. This can hurt nature and the local life. Responsible tourism means being kind to people, animals, and the environment while traveling.

Test 1

Traveling is fun and exciting! People travel to see new places and meet new people. Some go by car, others take a bus, train, or airplane. Many people love to take photos when they travel. It's important to pack clothes, money, and a camera. Don't forget your passport if you go to another country. Travel helps us learn about the world, see different cultures, and try new food.

Test 2

Animals live all around the world. Some animals are wild, like lions, tigers, and bears. Others are pets, like cats, dogs, and birds. Birds can fly in the sky, and fish swim in rivers, lakes, and oceans. Some animals have fur, while others have feathers or scales. People love to learn about animals. Many take care of them and enjoy visiting animals in zoos or nature parks.

Test 3

Computers help us in many ways. We use them to write, play games, and search the internet. At school, students use computers for learning and doing projects. People also use computers at work and at home. A computer has a screen, a keyboard, and a mouse. Many people also use tablets and laptops. Computers help people learn new things and finish work faster and more easily every day.

Test 4

Inventions help people in daily life. The light bulb helps us see when it's dark. The telephone lets us talk to people far away. Cars help us travel faster. Computers and the internet help us work, learn, and have fun. Inventors think of new ideas to solve problems and make life easier. Today, many people try to invent helpful tools to make life better for everyone.

Test 5

Sarah and her family are planning a vacation. They want to go to the beach for a week. They will swim in the sea, play in the sand, and eat ice cream. Sarah wants to take many photos and collect colorful shells. Her dad will drive the car, and they will pack their things. They are all very excited to relax, have fun, and enjoy their time together.

Test 6

Transportation helps us move from place to place. People can walk, ride a bike, or drive a car. Buses and trains help many people travel quickly. Airplanes fly in the sky, and boats travel on water. Some people ride animals like camels or horses in some places. Good transportation saves time. It helps people go to school, work, or travel for fun with family or friends.

4) Read the passage then answer the questions:

The boat was one of the first forms of transport. A hundred years ago, the only way to make a journey across the sea was by boat. Nowadays, it is possible to fly from one continent to another in the space of a few hours. However, many passengers still have fun while travelling by boat. Although the boat is a rather old-fashioned way of travelling, it has certain advantages to begin with; the boat is usually more comfortable than a plane or a car. Instead of staying in your seat for the whole journey in the plane or the car you can go for a walk on the deck, eat in a restaurant or even do shopping on the boat. Furthermore, having more space to move around makes a long journey much more pleasant.
